years of the evil of the British Empire, which she stressed, must be understood if mankind is to get out of this crisis. In this context, she expressed optimism that the death of Princess Diana, ironically, might provide the impetus to a revolt against the Empire, which will finish it off, according to the principle of Nemesis.

Pedagogical Proofs

"Why Baby Boomer Economics Would Create a New Dark Age: Four Pedagogical Proofs" was the title of the third panel presentation, which heard from six speakers.

The panel began with remarks by Theo Mitchell, a former South Carolina State Senator and a director of the Schiller Institute, who urged the audience to rally around LaRouche’s ideas.

Then Nancy Spannaus provided an introduction to the question of real economy, versus the virtual reality of the Baby Boomer—the which becomes Nazi economics.

John Hoefle spoke on “The Bubble Is the Disease”; Richard Freeman followed, with a presentation on “Hyper-inflation Is No Solution”; “The New Colonialism: LaRouche and Mahathir

Conference Draws from Europe, Africa, China

How To Survive 1998’s ‘Moment of Truth’

A two-day conference sponsored by the Schiller Institute on the theme “Global Crash and Collapse of Civilization,” held in Bad Schwalbach, Germany Dec. 13-14, 1997, laid down a plan for the actions which governments must take early in 1998, to enable mankind to face the onrushing financial crisis that threatens civilization itself.

Both Lyndon LaRouche and Helga Zepp LaRouche keynoted the conference, which included significant participation from Africa, Western and Eastern Europe, and China.

Helga LaRouche opened the conference with a discussion of the world crisis, and the tragedy which looms because world leaders are clinging to the same methods of thought which created it.

LaRouche identified his view of Russia’s role as twofold: As stabilizing Central Asia through its participation in infrastructure projects, and as serving as a source of high-quality machine tools for the development of the population of Asia. He heavily stressed the indispensable role of governments for doing what governments do best: namely, developing infrastructure.

The discussion also focussed substantially on the question of education, especially what kind of education is required to create and maintain an economy appropriate to human beings, not monkeys.

In contrast to the horror stories from Eastern Europe, was a presentation by a Chinese economist, Bi Jiyao, who provided an overview of the present stage of economic reform in China. In the discussion that followed, the issue of the apparent paradox between “material” and “spiritual” development, became a topic of discussion. LaRouche addressed this issue by raising, once again, the nature of the human cognitive processes upon which a productive economy is based. You have to begin by thinking of all the things which are necessary to develop the mind of a child, LaRouche said, so that the child measures its success by development, not just objects in its possession.

New Bretton Woods System Discussed in Warsaw

The Polish Schiller Institute held a seminar in Warsaw on Nov. 13, 1997, on the theme “For a New Bretton Woods System.” The event drew 50-60 guests, including scientists, intellectuals, engineers, and, from the government and diplomatic arena, representatives of the Presidential office, the Foreign Ministry, and several embassies; a Senator, a Member of Parliament, and representatives of the leadership of Solidarnosc.

Elisabeth Hellenbroich gave the keynote address with two themes: the financial crisis, and LaRouche’s proposal that President Clinton convene a conference of heads of state to put the present, imploding financial system through orderly bankruptcy, and establish in its place a New Bretton Woods System.

Also addressing the Warsaw event was Frank Hahn, who outlined a reconstruction program for Poland, to repair infrastructure ravaged by this past summer’s floods.
