LaRouche Addresses Black State Legislators
Reports on Strategic Crisis, DNC Racist Assault on Voting Rights

LaRouche was introduced by former South Carolina State Senator Theo W. Mitchell, one of NBCSL’s founders, and the former Democratic nominee for Governor of South Carolina.

A Man Who ‘Has Paid His Dues’
Mitchell, who enjoys tremendous stature in the organization, gave LaRouche a rousing introduction as someone who “has truly paid his dues and stood toe to toe against those who would destroy both you and me.” He referred to the fact that LaRouche gave up five years of his life as a political prisoner because of his fight for economic justice, then emerged from prison, and took the point against the Department of Justice’s “Operation Frühmenschen” campaign targeting Black public and elected officials. He also referred to LaRouche’s fight against the Democratic National Committee’s racist attack on the Voting Rights Act. When Mitchell concluded by introducing LaRouche as “the man who should be President of the United States,” the audience responded with a standing ovation.